Keep Your Eyes Safe and Protected!

Personal protective eyewear, such as goggles and safety glasses, must be used in a workplace where an eye hazard exists.

Having the right protective eyewear is critical in preventing eye-related injuries. According to the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH), each day approximately 2,000 U.S. workers sustain an eye injury on the job that requires medical treatment. A third of these are treated in hospital ERs, with more than 100 resulting in a day or more of lost work. The majority of injuries occur because of small particles or objects striking or abrading the eye.

When selecting eye protection, consider your specific work situation and the nature of hazards at your workplace. Choose safety glasses or goggles that offer appropriate coverage and the right fit, and allow for sufficient peripheral vision.

Stay Safe with Floor Mats!

Proper matting keeps your workplace protected and employees safe, plus helps avoid serious injuries.

According to the National Floor Safety Institute (NFSI), over one million yearly hospital emergency room visits result from slip and fall accidents and are the primary cause of missed work days.

Put floor mats on your safety checklist:

- Anti-fatigue mats provide added comfort and improved ergonomics, boosting employee morale and productivity.
- Look for beveled edges that help increase safety by reducing the risk of tripping.
- Choose the right type of mat; drainage capabilities are essential for wet work environments.

Use the outdoor scraper mat together with the indoor wiper mat (sold separately) for maximum floor protection.

Clean Step Outdoor Rubber Scraper Mat

- Superior molded tread aggressively scrapes shoes clean and traps debris in the base of the mat.
- $\frac{5}{16}$ " natural rubber construction for maximum durability.
- Beveled edges for additional safety and prevention of slips and falls.

DID YOU KNOW?

Each year, approximately 30 million workers are exposed to noise levels high enough to cause irreversible hearing loss.* Protect your hearing with the right device. Noise Reduction Rate (NRR) classifies the device's ability to reduce noise levels—the higher the decibel number (dB), the greater the potential for noise reduction.

*National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH).

DID YOU KNOW?

According to the American Latex Allergy Association, 8-17% of healthcare workers and 1% of the general population in the U.S. (about 3 million people) are sensitive to natural rubber latex. Latex allergy reactions can range from skin irritation to anaphylaxis, a potentially life-threatening condition. Look for gloves made with latex alternatives, such as nitrile and vinyl.

Make Sure You're Compliant!

OSHA requires workplaces to have adequate first aid supplies readily available and adhere to ANSI standards for first aid content requirements.

In 2015 ANSI updated standards for new classes and types, with an effective date of 6/17/16:

- Class A kits contain contents designed for more common types of workplace injuries.
- Class B kits contain a broader, larger quantity of supplies for more complex or high-risk environments.
- Types (I, II, III, IV) reflect usage. For example, Type I identifies kits that are mounted and used indoors.

Look for product labeling to reflect these new standards.

Safety Baton

- Five super bright LED lights in baton may be seen up to 3,000 yards away and last up to 100,000 hours.
- Three different lighting modes include: slow flashing red, quick flashing red, and steady red light.
- Shock-proof, water-resistant, safe to use in inclement weather.

Be Prepared for a Fire Emergency!

Having a fire prevention program in place is crucial for employee safety and facility compliance.

On an average day, over 200 fires occur in U.S. workplaces, according to the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), and more than 5,000 people are injured annually in explosions and fires on the job. The best way to ensure the safety of your workforce is through fire prevention and preparation.

- OSHA requires employers to provide proper exits, firefighting equipment, emergency plans and employee training to prevent fire deaths and injuries in the workplace.
- Having an extinguisher within reach can be the difference between minor damage and catastrophe, or in extreme cases, life and death.
- Make sure to frequently inspect and maintain the condition of extinguishers, smoke alarms and any other fire safety equipment.

Keep extinguishers within reach to safeguard your workplace, assets and employees!

SYMBOL LEGEND

Because there is no universally accepted standard to designate products as environmentally preferable, we have adopted the green leaf symbol to highlight products that have one or more of the following attributes: reduced VOCs, compostable, biodegradable, contains recycled content, or other environmental attributes that make this product¹ less harmful to the environment or humans, when compared to its traditional counterparts. Many of the products marked with the green leaf symbol have been endorsed by third-party certifying organizations, and where applicable, the certifying body's logo appears next to the product's name. Please note that we have not independently verified the environmental attributes.

¹These environmental attributes refer to the products themselves and not the processes for manufacturing and transporting the products.

Products that meet the recovered material content ranges specified by the EPA through the Comprehensive Procurement Guideline (CPG)

Products that must be shipped freight
